GlobalDining Delivers Wireless Services to Business Travelers Through Mobile Office Solution by Motorola 17:00 MST on Aug 22, 2001

GlobalDining, the world's largest, location-based mobile restaurant directory and reservation network today announced that it has signed an agreement with Motorola to power its Mobile Office Solution with Global Restaurant Information and Wireless Reservations.

Motorola is also integrating Sabre's wireless travel services as part of its Travel Connector component of the Mobile Office Solution. Sabre's wireless travel services enhance Motorola's Mobile Office Solution by giving business travelers the convenience of accessing updated travel information through any WAP/HTML enabled wireless device. At any time, business travelers will be able to:

- Receive alerts for flight delays, cancellations and gate changes as well as receive trip reminder information
- Access time schedules, flight numbers, gate numbers, weather conditions and other general flight information
- Create reservations for airlines, hotels, car rentals or restaurant tables
- View or cancel existing reservations

With the addition of the GlobalDining service, Motorola is extending its Mobile Office Solution to allow business travelers to manage travel needs and access Dining information along with access to corporate e-mail, calendars, address books and travel information from mobile devices.

A recent study by PMP Research, a U.K.-based firm, estimates that 65 percent of enterprises are considering providing wireless access to e-mail. With the Mobile Office services that Motorola intends to provide, enterprises with wireless access to e-mail will further be able to cut corporate costs and increase employee productivity.
